

Joy over Fear

How to communicate
and live stress free
by using your five senses effectively

Why are so many men forcing the door open?

Most men and women today have no idea about how every single part of the body is important for the communication process. This explains why the communication between men and women is so poor. Once we understand better how the body works, we can definitely improve our communication skills in both our private and business lives and prevent many health issues.

Jean-Loup Fayolle, has twenty years of experience coaching private individuals and businesses and lecturing, using a cutting-edge communication approach. This is the first time that Acupuncture and Nutripuncture® knowledge have been incorporated in professional communication trainings.

He is a member of International Coach Federation and the Founder of E-I Communication.
